About Andrew

Andrew represents both lenders and borrowers in a variety of traditional and creative secured and unsecured credit transactions. He advises clients in connection with leveraged and investment grade credit facilities, including reserve based loans, acquisition financings, multi-currency facilities, and cross-border facilities, as well as distressed credits in restructuring and workout situations. A large portion of Andrew's practice consists of representing large commercial banks, both domestic and international, in connection with syndicated credit facilities to exploration and production companies, midstream companies, oilfield services companies, and commodity trading and storage companies.

Andrew has advised clients involved in distressed credits proceeding through bankruptcy, and he has worked on a number of debtor-in-possession credit facilities and exit credit facilities.
