Law360 Pulse recently caught up with partner Kit Crumbley to discuss joining Bracewell and what impressed him the most about the firm.

"I was impressed by Bracewell's outstanding reputation, commitment to client success, and innovative approach to tackling legal challenges on behalf of its clients," Crumbley told Law360 Pulse. "The firm's collaborative environment and diverse practice areas also stood out."

Crumbley also mentioned how his government experience can benefit his private practice.

"Most intellectual property litigation today requires strategic coordination between parallel proceedings in the district courts and the PTAB, each of which has its own procedures and pace," added Crumbley. "My government experience has spanned both venues, and has given me particular insight into the ever-changing practices of the PTAB."
