

EPA Greenhouse Gas Endangerment Review Risks Preemption Defenses

Media Mentions

February 27, 2025 | Bloomberg Law | 1 minute read | Washington, DC

---

Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Lee Zeldin has reportedly recommended a reconsideration of bedrock language that establishes greenhouse gases as a threat to public health, known as the endangerment finding.

Bracewell's Jeff Holmstead noted to Bloomberg Law that industry groups have been asking the Trump administration not to reverse the endangerment finding.

"There is great concern that reversing the finding would open the door to a lot more nuisance lawsuits – and it would eliminate one of the best arguments that oil companies have used to get lawsuits against them dismissed."

Related People

Jeffrey R. Holmstead

Partner

WASHINGTON, DC

+1.202.828.5852

jeff.holmstead@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Energy

Related Practices

Environment, Lands and

Resources

Government Relations

Strategic Communications