Bracewell LLP has added an international arbitration practitioner with more than two decades of Big Law experience across a range of industries and locations. J.P. Duffy joined the firm's New York office, bringing with him expertise gained while working on major arbitration in the United States, Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America.

"Bracewell is a firm I've watched grow for quite a while now, and they are a really, really collaborative, really dynamic firm that works really well together," Duffy told Law360. He added that the opportunity to help Bracewell continue to grow and build on its success was a draw.
