

Meet the ‘Great Deregulator’ Trump Chose to Lead EPA

Media Mentions

November 12, 2024 | E&E News | 1 minute read | Washington, DC

---

President-elect Donald Trump has chosen former Rep. Lee Zeldin (R-NY) as administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, a selection Bracewell’s Frank Maisano told E&E News is “totally with the president’s agenda.”

“The agenda, I believe, needs to be radical, and there will be a lot of opposition from the mainstream media, environmental groups, the Democrats in Congress,” said Maisano. “The job of deregulation is going to need someone who can also be a good defender and explainer of what they’re trying to do and what it will accomplish, and why it’s important and why it’s not wrecking the environment.”

Related People

Frank V. Maisano
Senior Principal
WASHINGTON, DC
+1.202.828.5864
frank.maisano@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Energy

Related Practices

Government Relations
Strategic Communications