

Nigeria's PIB Heralds Progress for Royalty Payments

Media Mentions

July 05, 2021 | Energy Voice | 1 minute read | London

---

Bracewell's Adam Blythe recently discussed with Energy Voice the significance of the Nigerian Senate and House of Representatives passing the Petroleum Industry Bill.

"This is a very significant development and we seem closer than ever to seeing these reforms become law, after more than 20 years – but it's not law just yet," said Blythe.

"The bill proposes fundamental changes to all aspects of Nigeria's upstream regulatory regime. Its passing will provide the industry with much needed certainty around taxes and royalties, along with reforming NNPC and establishing new regulators."

Click here to read more from *Energy Voice*.

Related People

Adam Blythe

Partner

LONDON

+44 (0) 20 7448 4247

adam.blythe@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Energy

Finance

Related Practices

Oil & Gas

Upstream Transactions