

Technology Transactions

We leverage deep industry experience to advise our clients in connection with technology-related legal issues. Our team dedicates its efforts to commercial transactions driven by technology. Our goal is to create effective business advantages for our clients and protect their intellectual property from infringement, while maximizing the return on the intellectual property investment.

We represent clients across an array of sectors, including biotechnology, clean technology, consumer products, communications, commercial aviation, e-commerce, energy, financial services, healthcare and life sciences, manufacturing, medical devices, retail, renewables and alternative energy, semiconductors, social media and games, and software.

We also protect our clients' intellectual property rights in development agreements, research agreements, confidentiality agreements, trade secret and know-how agreements, and employment and consulting agreements.
