

INSIGHTS

The Final ESA Rule: "Taking" Stock of the Changes and Challenges

September 10, 2019

By: Ann D. Navaro and Daniel J. Pope

The Endangered Species Act is a key, and sometimes controversial, environmental law with significant implications for energy and infrastructure development. The federal government recently issued final rules that change, in certain respects, implementation of the law. This webinar will explore those changes and their ramifications for land use and project planning.