

Adamantine's Founder & CEO Tisha Schuller: Embracing the Energy Future & Optimism

Podcast | Madam Policy

September 27, 2022 | 1 minute read

What is “future proofing”? Hear from Tisha Schuller, an energy policy thought leader who is proactively helping companies navigate the rapidly shifting energy landscape. This week, Founder and CEO of Adamantine Energy and host of the Energy Thinks podcast, Tisha Schuller, breaks down her multifaceted approach to energy development, which faces an unprecedented set of challenges evolving at breakneck speed. Whether she’s working with oil and gas companies to develop a path to a decarbonized energy future or advising environmental NGOs and Think Tanks, Tisha effectively collaborates to bring everyone into the energy future together.

Tune into Madam Policy this week with hosts Dee Martin, Christine Wyman and Adriney Chepeian as they discuss Tisha’s alternate approach to policy discussions, environmental justice, natural gas prices from a policy perspective, and the importance of having women represented at the highest levels. Also tune in to hear about Tisha’s exciting, upcoming book, Real Decarbonization: How Oil and Gas Companies Are Seizing the Low Carbon Future. Stay for Tisha’s top tips to her 24- year-old former hippie self!

Related People

E. Dee Martin

Partner

WASHINGTON, DC

+1.202.828.5818

dee.martin@bracewell.com

Related Practices

Government Relations